AORN is a volunteer organization. Travel will be involved. Please review the specific time commitments for each office for your specific applicant. As recognition of the pride an employer acknowledges for the honor of their employee holding an office with a national organization, many institutions have worked closely with their employees to enable them to attend official functions without depleting the employee's bank of vacation hours. Flex time and professional leave are examples of ways other institutions have assisted their employees to serve in their honored position.
